Reid,

Thank you for the note. Can you provide me with a copy of the documents that Google is planning to produce?

Hi Wayne – Thank you for your email. The Court did not formally extend the discovery deadline. However, after our last conversation, Google discovered additional documents that may be subject to similar agreements with LG, and therefore we wanted to provide you with that additional notice. I would be happy to discuss further if you have any questions. Please let me know. Thanks again.

Reid

Mr. Mullen,

Notwithstanding the email that I sent to you and Mr. Baber earlier, I wanted to reach out to you individually given our past communications.

I am sure you will recall that we had a brief telephone conversation last month wherein you advised me that there was a December 17, 2015 discovery cut-off date in the above-referenced case, so I am curious as to why Google is still engaged in the production of documents and responding to what appears to be a new set of Requests for Production (Set No. 10)? Specifically, I'd like to know if the Court extended the December 17, 2015 discovery cut-off date. If so, and to the extent that you can disclose how any extension of the discovery cut-off date came about, I would appreciate if you could provide me with an update.

Look forward to hearing from you.

Best regards,

Dear Mr. Mullen,

I write to you in response to your letter dated December 1, 2015, wherein you identified certain documents that Google intends on producing in the Oracle America v. Google, Inc., matter, to advise you that LG Electronics, Inc. will not to object to the production of the documents you identified in your letter to the extent that these documents are produced with the designation of "HIGHLY CONFIDENTIAL – ATTORNEY'S EYES ONLY" pursuant to the governing Protective Order.

Also, I would appreciate it if you could keep me apprised of any changes to the current December 17, 2015 discovery cut-off date in the above-referenced case.

Thank you.

Best regards,
